DEAR KDL FRIENDS & FAMILY:

The progress and programs put in place to address KDL’s three core areas of focus are phenomenal and poised to go much further. Here are highlights:

1. If you have kids in grades K-3, sign them up for Mission: Read at any KDL branch to help them pass the new Read By Grade Three law. Mission: Read was launched by Partners in Reading Success, a collaboration of all public libraries in Kent County plus the Literacy Center of West Michigan and Kent Intermediate School District. Mission: Read boosts reading skills and love for reading, helps parents find the right books for children and helps parents better understand their child’s Individualized Reading Improvement Plan. Learn more at MissionRead.org. (KDL Core focus addressed: Improve 3rd grade reading proficiency to help kids succeed in school and beyond.)

2. Do you know an adult who doesn’t have a high school diploma? The new KDL Career Online High School (COHS) gives them a second chance! It’s free and has a unique job-skills focus. See page 18 for more info or email cohs@kdl.org. (KDL Core focus addressed: Increase program opportunities for adults and senior citizens to create lifetime learning options.)

3. Every student in Kent County will receive a library card through the KDL Library Card Challenge! So far, 13,532 students have received library cards and more are in process. (KDL Core focus addressed: Enhance children’s learning through unique opportunities to make reading and learning fun, with a positive impact on school achievement.)

If you’re interested in learning more about these or numerous other programs, call me or our Patron Services Team at 616-784-2007.

KDL reintroduces vinyl record collection

> KDL Grooves - April 13 Launch

More than 1,400 vinyl albums along with turntables and high-end headphones will become available for check-out at:

- Cascade Township
- East Grand Rapids
- Grandville
- Kentwood
- Plainfield Township
- Krause Memorial (Rockford)
- Walker

Stacy Schuster, Collection Development Librarian for Kent District Library who is in charge of ordering music materials, was noticing a trend. New albums she wanted to order for KDL weren’t available on CD, only through streaming or on vinyl.

“‘That’s when I knew that I wanted KDL to have a vinyl collection,’ Stacy said. ‘Kent District Library is super innovative and always willing to give something a try. This was just another way we could give our patrons what they want.’”

Statistics back up what Stacy experienced. In 2017, CD shipments continued their years-long decline, falling 6 percent to $1.1 billion. Despite this, records are still cool — the Recording Industry of America calls vinyl “a bright spot among physical formats,” with revenues up 10 percent to $395 million.

Music experts agree that vinyl is making a comeback for multiple reasons, including superior sound quality, nostalgia, the allure of ownership, collectability and the “cool factor.”

Once Stacy got approval to move forward with making the vinyl collection a reality, she partnered up with Vertigo Music to make it happen. She was happy to partner with a small, local business instead of just ordering everything off Amazon.

“Vertigo bent over backwards to help and saved us thousands of dollars,” Stacy said. “It’s been great working with them.”

The KDL Grooves Collection, with 1,400 albums initially, will include everything from classic rock to classical, jazz to hip-hop. Some of the featured artists include the Beatles, Bob Dylan, Aretha Franklin, Cardi B., Childish Gambino and Metallica. The collection will continue to grow, as Stacy has devoted 25% of the library’s music budget to vinyl.

“Records have gone mainstream,” said Herm Baker, manager at Vertigo. “We worked with Stacy to put together a nice, varied collection with records from the 1950s to present day.”

No turntable? No problem. KDL will have 45 turntables available for checkout from the Beyond Books collection for up to three weeks at a time. There will also be 50 sets of high-end headphones available for use in KDL branches.

“It’s been fun seeing an idea become a reality,” Stacy said. “I hope our patrons are as enthusiastic about this collection as I am!”

Book Recommendation

Why Vinyl Matters, by Jennifer Otter Bickerdike: Pop culture writer and historian Jennifer Otter Bickerdike interviews some of our most iconic artists. Each superstar and superfan talks about their own experiences of vinyl and what it means to them, and the importance of its re-emergence — seemingly against all odds — as a physical format in the era of the digital economy.

Check out these travel-themed books:
Staff Picks

Sofia Khan is not Obliged
by Ayisha Malik

“The humor is quick, the heroine is flawed and relatable, and I really appreciate the sincere treatment of religion – it’s a very personal element for Sofia but isn’t too didactic or heavy-handed. She’s totally a Muslim Bridget Jones, but with a lot of echoes of Jane Austen, especially at the end (without any spoilers).” – Anna at East Grand Rapids

Women of Resistance: Poems for a New Feminism
edited by Danielle Barnhart and Iris Mahan

“This new collection of intersectional feminist poems has many memorable zingers and contains a diverse array of voices that share their various and different experiences of womanhood and speak out about the current political and social climate. There is much to savor here!” – Jaci at KDL’s Service Center

Deep Water
by Watt Key

“Deep Water is an exciting middle grade adventure/survival story. Julie Sims and her father take customers out for a deep sea dive, but when they surface they realize that something is very wrong.” – Susan at Plainfield Township

They May Not Mean To, But They Do
by Cathleen Schine

“A humorous tale about aging and death and how it affects everyone in the family. This story is told by the matriarch of the family and by her children. Her husband passes away and everyone wants what is best for Joy. Her view of what is best differs greatly from what her children think is best. The reader learns to love Joy and her children and grandchildren, who mean well. I loved this book and appreciated its perspective because “they may not mean to, but they do!” – Christina at Englehardt (Lowell)

The Wonky Donkey
by Craig Smith

“Who has not seen the video of the Scottish grandmother reading this book to her grandson? After watching the video, I had to check out the book for myself! What a hoot! It’s a fun, rhyming book with great illustrations! You will find yourself laughing just like the Scottish grandparent!” – Robin at Krause Memorial (Rockford)

Baby Teeth
by Zoje Stage

“What can I say, I love books about psychotic children. It must be because I watched The Bad Seed at such an impressionable age. This book was exactly what I hoped it would be. Just the right amount of creep factor and unease.” – Tricia at Cascade

The Rabbit Listened
by Cori Doerrfeld

“When everyone else is trying to offer advice after the world fell apart, the rabbit listened. I read this book to my son and it’s the perfect illustration of love by showing up and being there when someone needs you most.” – Ashley at Comstock Park

Let’s Go (So We Can Get Back): A Memoir of Recording and Discording with Wilco, Etc.
by Jeff Tweedy

“The songs that Jeff Tweedy writes and records are at times cryptic, dark, romantic, sad and funny. Let’s Go sheds a lot of light on his song-writing method and his life in a very personal way. His stories are often funny and deep but they also feel familiar, as if they’re remembered snapshots from your own life. While reading, keep your phone or computer nearby to look up the people and music peppered throughout the book. As soon as you’re ready, let’s go!” – Randy at KDL’s Service Center

Won’t You Be My Neighbor?
Video

“An exploration of the life, lessons and legacy of iconic children’s television host, Fred Rogers.” – Sue at Walker

All Systems Red
by Martha Wells

“A fun sci-fi romp about Murderbot, a slacker security android who’d rather watch Netflix than kill even though it has hacked its governor module and could be a rogue assassin if it wanted to be. Instead, Murderbot spends its time secretly streaming television shows while half-heartedly doing its hired job to protect a group of scientists on what should have been a rather peaceful and boring exploration mission. But when strange forces threaten the lives of Murderbot’s charges, it has to press pause and get to work.” – Crystal at Kentwood

The new Career Online High School (COHS) will provide 25 adults the opportunity to join our first graduating class.

KDL is the first library in Michigan to offer a second chance for adults to earn a high school diploma, opening doors for jobs, military service and college education.

When someone earns a high school diploma, they are less likely to be unemployed, on assistance or incarcerated. They also earn an average of $10,000 more per year.

“The high school diploma initiative targets head-of-household adults that have not yet finished high school,” said Sara Proano, Community Engagement Manager for KDL. “Our program is designed to help these individuals ‘learn to learn,’ and by doing so, develop a career plan and provide for their families.”

COHS is completely free. If you or someone you know could benefit from this program, please reach out to Sara Proano at 616-784-2292 or sproano@kdl.org to learn more.

If you are interested in sponsoring this life-changing program, contact Claire Horlings, Development Manager at 616-784-2092 or chorlings@kdl.org. Sponsorships can be named after an individual or organization.

“By sponsoring a scholarship, you open the door of economic opportunity for an adult student who wants to change the trajectory of their life—and it begins with completing a high school degree,” said Claire.

We can’t wait to share some stories with you after our first class graduates!

COHS diploma is superior to General Education Development (GED):

- An accredited high school diploma is more widely accepted across the U.S. and abroad for jobs and college applications
- Flexible 24x7 student access to coursework
- Focused on skills that match today’s greatest job opportunities
- Multiple layers of support for students to increase the likelihood of completion (academic coaches, library staff and certified instructors)
- Earned in 18 months
- Free for qualified residents

35,685 adults (age 25 or older) in Kent County do not have a high school diploma
